News and Updates

EU was highly disappointed with Ukraine's decision to ban wheat export

According to the official statement made by the European Union Commissioner on Agriculture and Agricultural Development Dachian Chiolosh, Ukraine disappointed EU with announcement regarding ban. Although Commissioner admitted the necessity to maintain food security strategy, Ukraine should not take actions that result in increase in prices. Lately there has been a big increase in prices for agricultural goods, as the result of highly unfavorable weather conditions on the global scale.

AgroInvest comment: as global stocks of grain decreased this season, CIS region countries are usually the first ones to initiate export bans.
